

WILL DEMAND AN EXPLANATION OF PLAN TO "APPEASE"

Greenwood Most Apprehensive About International Outlook

LOAN W A S OFFERED

Wants Explanation of Plans to Exchange for Pledge of Peace

By Charles A. Smith
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, July 24—Notice he will demand from Prime Minister Chamberlain an explanation in the House of Commons of the plan to "appease" Chancellor Hitler with a huge loan in return for a promise of disarmament, was served today by Laborite Arthur Greenwood.

"I am most apprehensive about the international outlook," Greenwood told constituents in a speech in which he also asserted he would question Chamberlain in the House regarding the plans whereby Hitler has reportedly been offered a tremendous loan in exchange for a pledge of peace and unilateral disarmament.

"I still have a feeling," Greenwood asserted, "that if Chamberlain could open the appeasement umbrella again he would be only too glad to do it. Continued acts of moral cowardice will not keep the peace of the world."

Chamberlain also faced the delicate task of explaining to Commons officials reports from Tokyo that the government had yielded to Japanese pressure for recognition of the Japanese hegemony over conquered territory in China.

Will Canvass Tomorrow For Lawn Fete Donations

Four young women will canvass in Bristol borough tomorrow for donations for the lawn fete of Harriman Hospital, scheduled for next month.

The group who will call at the homes here will include: the Misses Rita Dugan, Jean Ennis, Elizabeth Nelson and Betty Lippincott.

Health Officials Are Taking 13-Weeks' Course

HARRISBURG, July 24—Among a group of State Department of Health physicians who have gone "back to school" for a 13 weeks course of special training at the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia is Dr. H. W. Hassell, of Bridgeport, the District Medical Health Officer for Bucks and Montgomery counties.

The University, with the co-operation of Dr. John J. Shaw, State Health Secretary and the United States Public Health Service, opened its new Department of Public Health and Preventive Medicine two weeks ago. The "students" are physicians who have been selected by Dr. Shaw to take charge of state medical centers throughout Pennsylvania. These men will become specialists in Public Health Administration which is a specialized branch of medicine covering every phase of the field of prevention. They will attend lectures delivered by specialists from Penn and other leading medical institutions. They will visit factories to study accident prevention methods; dairies and meat packing establishments as part of their work in sanitation. The course will embrace topics, from architecture (better housing for better health) to zoology (the transmission of diseases by insects and animals).

Lieutenant Colonel A. Parker Hitchens, a veteran of 38 years in public health work, heads the new health department at the University. Dr. Hitchens, a native of Delaware, joined the Army Medical Corps in 1918. He taught at the Army Medical School, was on the Army staff in the Philippines as technical adviser in public health and sanitation and organized the School of Public Health and Preventive Medicine at the University of the Philippines. He is past president of the Society of American Bacteriologists. Assisting Dr. Hitchens are Dr. Charles P. Carpenter and 28 other specialists from Penn's medical school and other prominent institutions.

Special schools such as Penn's also exist at Harvard and Johns Hopkins but this is the first effort along this line that ever has been launched in Pennsylvania. Health Secretary Shaw, who has declared that he is determined to give Pennsylvania "the best health department it has ever had," believes that "physicians in public health work should be just as skilled in protecting the health of the citizens with their knowledge of methods of prevention as they should be in curing them after they are ill."

"The physician," Dr. Shaw pointed out, "competent to treat lead poisoning very often may not be able to prescribe ventilation to prevent lead poisoning or a case of typhoid fever may be handled by a doctor who does not know how to arrange plumbing or water purification to prevent the disease. Those are the things our 'pupils' at Penn's new school will be taught."

SEEKS NOMINATION For Register of Wills

EDWARD B. WATSON

Edward B. Watson, 45, Republican Committeeman for approximately 20 years in Upper Buckingham Township, and for years one of the best posted authorities on details at Capitol Hill has announced his candidacy for the office of Register of Wills of Bucks County.

Mr. Watson was born on September 1894, in Mechanicsville, the son of late William and Carrie Stavelly Watson. He still resides at the Watson homestead on the Mechanicsville Road, a member of the family of the sixth generation of Watsons to reside there.

The Register of Wills candidate is well-fitted for that office as a result of long business experience as head of the Bucks County bureau of the Keystone Automobile Club and because of his knowledge of business affairs generally, gained over a period of years in active political life in Harrisburg and in his home county.

Mr. Watson attended Tyro Hall school, Hughesian Free School and Buckingham Friends School at Lahaska. He farmed with his father on the Watson homestead until 1928, when he entered the insurance business.

He is one of the 14 founders and is at present a member of the board of trustees of the Loyal Republican Club of Bucks County which has a membership of over 1700. He is also a member of Buckingham Farmers' Club, Tyro Hall Grange and a number of fraternal organizations.

The candidate has always entered into the spirit of community helpfulness both in his home township as well as in Doylestown, where his business headquarters are located.

AGRICULTURAL CLASSES ARE NOW BEING FORMED

Instructor Expects 24 Pupils At Newtown; and 30 At Langhorne

LETTER TO STUDENTS

Classes for the agricultural courses to be conducted in the Langhorne-Middletown and Newtown public schools are now in process of formation by R. L. Ruble, supervisor of agriculture at the schools. Arrangements have been made for opening of such courses in September.

Twenty-four are expected at Newtown; and approximately 30 at Langhorne.

Mr. Ruble has addressed an open letter to the prospective students of the two schools:

"The Home Project is a part of the required work in agriculture, if you wish to earn all the possible credit available. It is also the means by which you can put to work the theory that you learn in class. This practical work is done outside of the regular school hours and should consist of one or more farm practices. A list of possible projects has been given to you. If the minimum standards are filed, you are entitled to credit each school year during which the project is conducted.

"You may study agriculture, but unless you actually practice or do something along agricultural lines you are nothing but a 'book farmer.' To be a useful man or a useful citizen you should try to do something worthwhile. The experience will help make you successful as a student of agriculture if you aspire to farm or follow other agricultural enterprises.

"Your project can be owned by you. It can and should be all yours. Most parents will co-operate in giving their children permission to own a project

Tabby Takes A Stroll

(By "The Stroller")

Many a dog is led upon a leash on the streets of our borough, but for the first time, the other day, we saw a cat thus taken for a walk.

Mill street, our main business thoroughfare, was used for the purpose. The tiger cat, with its pretty stripes, had an attractive harness and leash, with a young local woman firmly grasping the other end.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

Morrisville's police car, which formerly could only receive calls from Trenton headquarters, now may receive and transmit.

The two-way hookup for the radio car was started on Wednesday, according to Chief of Police Albert Cooper. Cards were passed to each home in the borough the past few days with instructions on how to contact assistance when the police are needed.

Residents are asked to dial 2-3441 and ask for Radio, telling the dispatcher that they are from Morrisville.

Alterations and additions to the Community Children's Home, Inc., on Doylestown Road, near Quakertown, were started by the contractor, C. H. Pritchard, of Perkasie, on Wednesday. It is hoped to have completion within 90 days.

All funds for this work are solicited by the Board of Directors and every dollar subscribed is used for the purpose stated—to place the Children's Home in A-1 condition, and keep it a credit to the community.

Since announcing the project a few substantial pledges were received from prominent people, which is very encouraging to the directors who give their time and talent to this work entirely free of compensation.

The home has no endowments or other source of income. The public gives and supports it, as well as owns it.

The Evangelical camp meeting in Highland Park, one-half mile south of Sellersville, held under the auspices of the Eastern district for the East Pennsylvania Conference of the Evangelical Church, will open on Friday evening, July 28, and continue until Sunday evening, August 6. It is the 46th annual gathering of this kind conducted by the Evangelical church in Highland Park and the prospects are that it will measure up in interest and enthusiasm and attendance to the meetings of former years. Rev. I. F. Bergstresser, of Allentown, district superintendent, will be in charge of

Named Under New Rail Unemployment Insurance Act

IMPORTANT TO R. R. MEN

Railroad workers who are unemployed and who earned $150 or more in 1938 in railroad work may now get benefits under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, which went into active operation on July 1, the Railroad Retirement Board pointed out yesterday.

Such unemployed workers should register and file claims for the benefits at the last railroad for which they worked, at the nearest office of a railroad, or with any of the score of claim agents recently appointed in the general Trenton area.

The Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act is a Federal act establishing a nation-wide system of unemployment insurance for railroad workers. It removes them from the supervision of the various State unemployment compensation commissions and places them under the one centralized Federal bureau. The new act is administered by the Railroad Retirement Board, which also administers the Railroad Retirement Act governing pensions.

The plan of operation, worked out in co-operation with railroad employers and labor organizations, provides for prompt handling of claims and payments of benefits.

All the unemployed applicant has to do to go to the foreman on his last

Rust Heinz Dies of Injuries

Pittsburgh, July 24—Rust Heinz, of Pasadena, Cal., older son of Howard Heinz, head of the wealthy pickle family, died today of injuries sustained in a head-on automobile crash in which six other persons were injured.

Athlete Seriously Hurt

Atlantic City, N. J., July 24—William Gummis, 27, former University of Pennsylvania football player, and son of the late Bobby Gummis, Philadelphia sports promoter, was injured seriously in an automobile accident at this resort early today.

Gummis, police said, was riding in a car driven by Miss Nona Carwithen, 24, a Merion post deb, when it swerved into a pole. Miss Carwithen, who escaped injury, was held in $500 bail pending the outcome of Gummis' injuries, which included a fractured skull.

BENNETT TO APPEAR IN PLAY AT NEW HOPE

Featured Tonight in "They Knew What They Wanted," Bucks Co. Play House

AN EXCELLENT CAST

NEW HOPE, July 24—One of America's leading actors, Richard Bennett, will return to the stage tonight, when he appears in "They Knew What They Wanted" at the Bucks County Playhouse, here. The actor with 45 years' experience behind him, is exceptionally well cast, it is said in this Pulitzer prize play of Sidney Howard.

The part opposite Bennett is to be played by Halla Stoddard, with St. John Terrell in another role. Bennett is adviser to the Playhouse, and also director of the school which is being conducted in conjunction with the theatre.

Robert Milton is staging the play. He is credited with having discovered the writing talents of Sidney Howard when the playwright was an investigator for the Department of Justice. Today Howard ranks as one of America's top-flight dramatists.

The cast at New Hope includes Morton L. Stevens, Douglas Gilmore, who made such a success in "Boy Meets Girl," Dennis Gurney, Betty Brenca and William Plone. Jacqueline Binney Wilson, seven-year-old daughter of Faure Binney, of Trenton, will make her professional debut in the play.

"They Knew What They Wanted" will be Mr. Bennett's only acting appearance this Summer at the Bucks County Playhouse. He has not been active on the stage since "Winterset" in 1936, and has been recovering from a serious injury which he incurred when he fell from a horse.

The Playhouse inaugurated a Saturday afternoon matinee with "Boy Meets Girl," which proved to be highly enjoyable all week.

SEEKS NOMINATION For County Auditor

FRANK G. ROWE

A resident of Langhorne Manor, in which community he has spent his entire life and where he has taken a keen interest in civic and community affairs, Frank G. Rowe has announced his candidacy for the nomination of County Auditor on the Republican ticket at the primary election in September.

Born in Middletown township of Quaker parentage 58 years ago, Mr. Rowe is a son of the late Washington and Martha Rowe, widely and favorably known residents of the lower part of Bucks county. When a child he attended the Langhorne Friends' School and later George School, Newtown. Mr. Rowe was married in 1907 to Miss Grace L. Flowers, of Langhorne. A greater part of his life was spent in Middletown township and the borough of Langhorne, but for some time he has been residing in Langhorne Manor.

For a period of 25 years Mr. Rowe was in the lighting fixture business in Philadelphia, but in 1930 he discontinued that enterprise. During the World War Mr. Rowe was assistant to the head of the welfare department at Harriman, having risen during a period of two years from clerk to the assistant of the head of the department.

Mr. Rowe also for 25 years was a member of the Bucks County Country Club at Langhorne, and during a period of ten years he served as the club's secretary. For four years he operated the club in a highly successful manner.

At present Mr. Rowe is affiliated with the American Auto Supply Stores of South Langhorne, wholesale distributors of American oil products. He also is a representative in the lower part of the county for the M. A. Rufe Estate, Doylestown.

During the past four years Mr. Rowe has served in a very efficient manner as a county auditor and it is assured his many friends will again rally to his support.

227TH ANNIVERSARY OF ST. JAMES' OBSERVED

The Rector, Rev. Boswell, Delivers Sermon Appropriate To Occasion

AT MORNING WORSHIP

Upon the occasion of the 227th anniversary of St. James' Episcopal Church, here, the pastor, the Rev. George E. Boswell, delivered the following sermon yesterday morning:

"Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations." (Deut. 32, v. 7).

At such a service as this, in which we fittingly commemorate the long life of our Parish, it is natural that we recall with deep reverence the days of old, in order that we might be inspired for the days that are to come. St. James' parish, of which you and I are integral parts, has a dual significance; for it is a historic parish of a historic Church. In the matter of physical years, this parish has been established for more than two and a quarter centuries and the Episcopal Church of which we are a part has a long history of a great many centuries.

The Episcopal Church is not simply another church as some imagine. It occupies a unique place in the religious world, and our own Parish likewise has had its influence in the history of America.

The story of the long life of the Episcopal Church in the world is one that is ever full of romantic interest. No one, of course could ever give even a small portion of the factors which make the Episcopal Church what it is in any one sermon, but there are certain significant characteristics about our Church which make membership in it a sacred privilege. George Elliott tells somewhere the story of a man who had been abducted in infancy and who grew up in an alien home, without any knowledge of his birth and antecedents. He happened one day to drift into a synagogue and seeing its solemn appointments, and hearing the music of its stirring liturgy, some dormant instinct in him

SIX INJURED AS WEEK-END MOTOR CRASHES TOTAL 3

Sextet Hurt As Two Cars Crash On Lincoln Highway, S. Langhorne

ONE MAY BE SERIOUS

New Yorker Has Possible Puncture of Lungs; 2 Women Hurt

In one motor accident involving two cars last night, five people were injured; and in two other week-end crashes, each involving two machines, occupants escaped injury.

In the accident last evening at 10.15, on the Lincoln Highway, South Langhorne, two women, two men and a boy were hurt, one probably seriously; and a man and a young baby escaped injury.

The injured: Joseph J. Waldron, New York City, fractured ribs, puncture of the lungs.

Mrs. Lucy Jones, colored, 1613 New Jersey avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., deep lacerations of both knees, requiring five and seven stitches.

William Taylor, husband of Mrs. Jessie Taylor, and the Taylors' small baby were uninjured.

The two women, the lad, and Mr. Waldron were taken to Harriman Hospital for treatment. Further examination of Waldron is to be made today to learn definitely extent of his injuries.

The one machine was driven by Mrs. Jones, and Waldron was the driver and sole occupant of the second car. According to the investigating officer, Erdman, of Oxford Valley barracks of the Penna. Motor Police, the cars were travelling in opposite directions when they crashed. What caused the collision has not been definitely determined. Each car was damaged to the extent of about $250.

Officer Dando of the same station also reported an accident on the Lincoln Highway, near City Line, which occurred at about three o'clock yesterday morning.

The car of Carl J. Dries, 217 W. Louden street, Philadelphia, was damaged to the extent of $150; and that of Louis Young, 801 N. Orleans street, Philadelphia, to the amount of $50. It is stated that Young entered the Lincoln Highway from the old highway, enroute toward Philadelphia, when his car and that operated by Dries toward New York, crashed. Young was arrested on a charge of reckless driving. Neither driver was hurt.

The machines operated by Nicholas Vitale, Woodbourne, and by John S. Francis, Washington Crossing, crashed Saturday in Morrisville, but no injuries were recorded.

Francis was going south on South Delmor avenue, about 1.15 a. m., when he side-swiped a car driven by Vitale and owned by Willard Rickert, of Langhorne, which was going north. Both cars were badly damaged.

Officer Andrew Thompson investigated. A hearing is scheduled in Morrisville police court on Wednesday at 7.30 p. m. Francis is being held on a reckless driving charge.

Filmore St. Man Takes A Hayes St. Miss As Bride

The wedding of Miss Stella M. Mucha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Mucha, 250 Hayes street, and Michael Krachak, son of Peter Krachak, 113 Filmore street, took place Sunday at noon in St. Mark's Catholic Church. The Rev. Paul E. Baird performed the ceremony. Miss Katharine Keating, organist, played the wedding march, as the bridal party entered the church.

Miss Helen Mucha, Philadelphia, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Kathryn Zack, Hayes street, was bridesmaid. Serving the groom as best man was William Kostuk, and the usher was Andrew Kresak, Trenton, N. J.

The bride was attired in a gown of white satin, with long full skirt and train. The bridal veil of tulle, trimmed with lace, had a wreath of orange blossoms, and she wore white slippers and carried lilies. The matron of honor and the bridesmaid were attired in gowns of powder blue satin, featuring long full skirts. Each attendant wore a pink tulle veil and halo of pink flowers, pink slippers and carried pink roses.

After the ceremony a dinner was served at the home of the bride for the immediate families, 50 being served. The couple will reside for a while at the home of the bride's parents.

INTERESTING ADVERTISEMENTS

Advertising is a mirror of the times. It is the harbinger of all seasons. On its present extensive scale, advertising tells each half of the world how the other half lives.

A change of seasons is approaching. What will the new season be? Newspaper advertising foretells that it will be the season of radio, new household furnishings, books and wearing apparel appropriate to the period of transition between the two extremes of climates.

Late summer and early autumn turn the American mind to thoughts of long winter evenings and home. The automobile has emptied the front porches of America but the home fireside still calls when winter winds blow and the radio is at its best. The great quantity of radio and furniture advertising completely refutes the jernial about the unloosing of the home ties.

Current advertising reflects another change recent years have wrought in the American scene. The predominance of automobile advertising is explained by the custom of many car owners to buy the new car in the late summer or early fall when new models are making their debut. It is to autumn that one looks for perfect motoring days, and the temperate days of September and October seem made especially for breaking in new motors.

Seasonal buying is as natural and irresistible as the changing of the seasons. Before merchandising and advertising had been developed to their present state of near-perfection, a baref populace avidly poured over the pages of the almanac for the pills and potions of the season. Today it has something better to shop for in the advertising columns.

FOR UNSPOILED VACATION

Vacation time means a good time for school children but it means also the time of danger for children at play. Because of the cessation of regular training given by teachers during the course of the school year, the vacation months bring to parents a responsibility which they must and no doubt are willing to assume.

Of giving advice, there is of course no end, but as one looks over the tablets of admonitions the list drawn up by the head of America's biggest and busiest city seems to cover the subject. Here are Mayor LaGuardia's rules. Don't be careless, don't hitch on cars, don't steal rides on trolley cars or buses, don't play games in the roadway, don't play games in a parked auto. The rules are only five, comprehensive and concise, easy to teach and remember and easy to obey.

The rules for children with bicycles also are ample and only five. Don't weave in and out of traffic, don't ride without a tail-light, don't pass a red traffic light, don't ride on the handlebars and don't hook onto trucks or cars. And two others are added to the general list: Don't go into the water for at least two hours after eating, and don't play with fireworks, guns or knives. None of these rules work any hardship on children, or their parents. They make life easier and save it.

The student stunt of swallowing goldfish, if you can remember that far back, is not likely to be followed by a wave of bee-catching contests. One was tried in Delaware and all but one of the contestants got stung.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Dec. 29, 1877. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

dated at Bristol Dec. 27, 1877. The following items were culled from files of the Bucks County Gazette of December 27, 1877:

Christmas has not had a beneficial effect upon everybody, for an attempt to rob J. Wesley Wright's store was made last night. Two augur holes were bored in the back door, but the sheet iron between the two portions of the door stopped further progress in that direction, and as far as is known no further efforts were made. John Dorrance's residence on Radcliffe street, was also visited by burglars the same night, and although the house was pretty well ransacked, it is believed that nothing was taken of any consequence. Policeman Thorpe came by the house and saw a light in the cellar, which attracted his attention. He inquired who was down there, and received no answer, but the light was blown out, and before the officer could sound the alarm, the parties had escaped. The tools used in attempting to get in Wright's store, were found at Dorrance's, and proved to be the property of Archibald Albertson, from whom they had been stolen.

A Christmas sensation occurred at Gordon, Groff & Company's store, on Tuesday morning, a lot of canned tomatoes stacked upon a shelf back of the counter, fell with a loud crash; one can struck Mr. Groff, upon the head, bruising him and mashing his hat. When last heard from the can was doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. Another can fell upon a box of matches, igniting them and setting fire to some paper, and a pair of scales were sadly demoralized and are not expected to recover.

Major G. W. Ingalls, for several years employed by the Government as an agent among the Indians, but now the general superintendent of the Baptist Home Missionary Society, for the evangelization of the Indians, will speak on the "Indian Question" in the Bristol Baptist Church on next Sunday evening.

At Grundy's mills on Sunday morning between two and three o'clock, a fire was discovered and the whistle sounded the alarm and quickly drew a crowd of interested spectators who were pleased to witness the success of those not merely lookers on, in their attempt to extinguish the flames. Owing to the early discovery of the fire, it was put out before it had gained any headway.

General E. B. Grubb, of Edgewater, shot a pigeon shooting match at Andalusia, on Wednesday last with Howland Jaffray, a New York dry goods merchant, and came off victor, shooting 78 out of 100 birds, Jaffray killing 65. The contest was for a piece of plate valued at $500.

leaped into life, and he said within himself, "I belong here. This is my church." The Episcopal Church is the church of your fathers. Its services may at first seem strange to one who has attended some other church, its vestments and altar may seem novel, but this is the Church of your ancestors, it is the Church of historic Anglo-Saxon Christianity, it is the church whose roots go back to the Apostolic age. Few churches have so rich and so continuous a history. As a result of changes and dissensions of past centuries, the Episcopal Church today is inclusive and democratic, and in spite of wide diversities of opinion over minor matters it truly is united.

This morning I want to mention just a few of the facts that every churchman should know. In the first place there are authentic records to show that the church was established in England as early as the second century, as a fully organized branch of the ancient Catholic Church. I have been told that there are still remains of churches in England which were built during the early Roman period of English history. In the council of Arles which met in 314 A. D. three English bishops were present. The church continued throughout all the centuries in England and was always known as the Church of England.

I wish that I had time to go into the various disputes which arose throughout the ages in which the Church of England always repudiated any attempts to interfere with her national rights; her separate identity, and her traditional services. I am well aware that many are under the impression that the Episcopal Church was founded by King Henry the Eighth, but nothing could be further from the truth. Let me recall for you the Magna Charta which was drawn up and signed in 1215 A. D. nearly three years before the time of King Henry the Eighth, and the opening sentence of that immortal document is "The Church of England shall be free, her rights entire and her liberties unimpaired."

Any honest study of history shows conclusively also that the Church of England always asserted its independence of any attempt of foreign sovereignties to interfere with it. King Henry the Eighth did no more than many of his predecessors had done for a thousand years before. He certainly did not found any new church; the reformation in England was simply the climax of a great many similar struggles and rejections. Moreover the form of worship in the Church of England has always retained its original and national characteristics from the earliest days on, and even today there are but few minor changes in its liturgy. It is a grave historical as well as legal error to say that any new church was introduced in England at the time of the reformation.

After the reformation there were no vital changes in the church's services, or in its historic ministry. Our ministry, our liturgy, our doctrines are historically authentic. These are facts which every churchman ought to cherish; facts which ought to make us feel that we are indeed privileged.

The history of the Episcopal Church in America is equally thrilling and fascinating. As early as 1607, English settlers came to make their homes here in America and of course they brought their church with them, for the church in those days meant much to every individual. As the colonies grew the Church of England services were established by missionaries who had been ordained in England. Surely it requires no great imagination on the part of any American to visualize the important part that the church would play in our nation's development. The Episcopal Church was established and at work here in America for nearly a century before we came into being as a nation. It is, I think, interesting to note that more than two-thirds of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and more than two-thirds of those who drew up and adopted the Constitution were members of the Episcopal Church.

Our church also was the first to found a public library, the first to establish a college in America, the first to send missionaries to Japan and Africa, the first to do any work among the negroes, the first to establish a temperance movement, the first to found an orphan home, and so on. Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton, Madison and Marshall, and a long list of other outstanding American names were Episcopalians.

Our own parish here in Bristol goes back to the earliest days. Next Tuesday, St. James' day, will be 227 years since the church was built and dedicated. As a matter of fact records show that as early as 1702 a church was here in Bristol. We were founded by two missionaries whose names ought to be highly revered, John Talbot and George Keith. They came to this country as missionaries and they established Episcopal churches over a vast territory. They established St. Mary's Church in Burlington, and came across the river and established the work here.

Today it seems to me we should be conscious of the love, the labor and the sacrifices made in order to establish and maintain St. James' Church throughout all of its long life. The missionaries sent out by the Society for the propagation of the Gospel in foreign parts came here fired with love and devotion for the cause of Christ, and their devotion and enthusiasm was inspiring to others. To get a church started anywhere involves a deep love for Christ. That, after all is the cornerstone of every church that is worth while. Our Lord's last command to his Apostles was to Go Teach and Baptize all nations, and that is the task that the Episcopal Church has been endeavoring to fulfill throughout all the ages.

Can we then imagine the founding of St. James' Church here in Bristol? Missionaries who so loved God that they were urged to Go and Teach and Baptize. Their infusing their inspiration into some of the people who lived here, their fearless courage, their patient, hard and often discouraging labor, their tremendous sacrifices. All this they did for us. I suspect that most of us do not think very often of what it cost those who founded and maintained our church here. Like so many other things we take the church for granted.

Our parish in its long life has been through much. It was erected as every Church ought to be erected, as a citadel and temple where men in every age might keep trust with God. There were many times when its continuance hung on a frail thread. It has been zealously supported by some, it has been shamefully neglected by many. Our history graphically depicted would present a very much jagged line, for there have been innumerable ups and downs in its long life. There were times when I suppose some would have officially pronounced the work of St. James' parish dead, for the buildings were deserted and permitted to fall in ruin and decay; the parish was at one time cruelly divided, but always there was a thread of devotion on the part of a few, a frail continuity that has survived and born fruit.

I have often wished that we who are members of this parish could have some adequate picture of the outflowings of our church. Apart from the fact that other churches were established by St. James' parish there must have been thousands trained in this sacred edifice to manfully take their places in the world, thousands who have kept their trust with God. Any backward look over our history certainly fills our hearts with admiration and deep appreciation. We do well to remember, even if only for a brief time, the days of old, the years of many generations.

We must not linger longer with our heritage, as a historical parish or a historic church the future is indeed challenging. To retard the growth of our parish in any way, or even to be satisfied to keep it running along on level ground, is to be unworthy of our priceless heritage. There are mountain peaks of usefulness to our nation, to the world, and to God, we need the same love and devotion through which our church was established and through which it has been maintained throughout its long life. And love, my brethren, always involves hard, patient labor and tremendous sacrifices. No sacrifices which are honestly given for the cause of the Church of God in the world are never without fruit. No one knows better than I how fruitless our Christian efforts sometimes seem, yet Christ continues to speak to weary, baffled people everywhere, the same glad, some message that he spoke to His Apostles, "Follow Me."

Sometimes I try to visualize what our parish would be if every member remembered the days of old and considered the years of many generations; if all would cultivate in their hearts such love for God that they would count it a privilege to labor and to sacrifice for his church.

I want to close with a statement of Emerson which to my mind applies to all of us. He once said: "All that I have seen in the past, teaches me to trust God for the future." Surely, as a parish, our past history should be an inspiration for the future.

The Great Game of Politics

dearly cherished job and even a remnant of self-respect, too. The relief of Mr. Morgenthau when he found himself able to crawl off the limb was very great, indeed. He became almost absurdly grateful. Not long ago a statement was made in print that support of the new spending program was a condition of the great face-saving performance.

THAT may or may not be true but it is true that so great is Mr. Morgenthau's desire to preserve harmony and so anxious is he not again to feel estranged from his Chief, that conscientious man as he is, he had no difficulty in swallowing the self-liquidating stuff. Actually, he has worked himself up to the point where he seriously believes that he is "enthusiastic" for the plan, though it violates every basic fiscal conviction he has.

WITH Mr. Jones it is different. Mr. Jones is a clear-headed, very able, unemotional business man who never fools himself and knows vastly more about money than all the New Deal wizards combined. For one thing, he has accumulated personally a great deal more than any twenty of them. It is not too much to say he knows as much about the Federal finances as either Mr. Morgenthau or his earnest young aide, Mr. John Hanes, who recently got himself mentioned in connection with the Presidential nomination—for what reason it is a little hard to see, unless it is in recognition of the great things he thought he was going to accomplish but didn't.

OF COURSE, no one who really knows Mr. Jones believes that he, like Mr. Morgenthau, has swallowed either the self-liquidating hooey of the "outside the budget" theory evolved by the Eccles school of economists for the purposes of concealing the additional debt. His endorsement is explainable on the ground that Mr. Jones in the past seven years has had to accept—or seem to accept—a good many things which neither his mind nor his heart did accept. No more moral turpitude is involved in that than in, for example, the President's denial that there was any politics in the McNutt appointment. There are times in the lives of all public officials when it becomes expedient not to be too rigid about principle.

SINCE Mr. Jones has been head of the RFC there have been several such occasions. Unquestionably, endorsement of the new bill is one and it must be admitted that he is not without adequate excuses. One is that it is practically certain that only a small part of the bill will pass at this session. Another is that even if the total amount were authorized not more than $500,000,000 possibly could be put out before the end of Mr. Roosevelt's term. A third is that both the spending and the lending—such as it is—will be under the control and direction of Mr. Jones himself. A fourth is that Mr. Jones had been pointedly asked to do what he could for the bill and it is not expedient for him to go high-minded and refuse. Mr. Jones does not operate that way.

HE has more influence with Democratic Senators than any other member of the Administration. This is partly because he is their kind of Democrat and they like him, and partly because as head of the RFC with unlimited funds he has been in position to do these Senators many favors since 1933, and there is not one who has not asked things of him. An example of his influence in Congress is the conceded fact that the Reorganization bill would not have passed this year had it not been made plain in advance that Mr. Jones would be the head of the newly created powerful Federal Lending Administration.

IT is quite clear that if any part of this bill is to go through at this session Mr. Jones' influence is essential. Called upon, Mr. Jones responds. He is not particularly congenial to the President, and the Neo-New Dealers dislike him very much. But when they get into a legislative jam they turn to him for help. That's what they did this time, but the fact that he is helping does not mean that he does not recognize this bill for what it is—a political pump-priming proposition which will be much emasculated before it gets through and which won't work, anyhow.

OFFER HOME-MAKERS SUCCESSFUL TIPS ON JELLY MAKING

By Miss Edna Stephany

(Home Economics Representative)

Fruit is ripe and plentiful and every homemaker knows it is time to think about jelly.

Some homemakers are puzzled over the results of previous jelly making. They ask, "Why does my jelly weep?" "Why does it not set?" Here are answers to some of the questions which often perplex modern homemakers.

Q. What quantity of fruit is best to use at one time in making jellies?

A. Use small quantities at a time so that the jelly process may be carried through promptly. Six quarts of berries or eight pounds of fruit, such as apples or pears, are good quantities.

Q. What size kettle should one use for jelly making?

A. Use a kettle which is large enough so that the jelly will boil hard without danger of boiling over.

Q. What substances must fruit contain in order to make a good jelly?

A. Pectin and acid are the two essentials in jelly making. It is best to use a mixture of slightly underripe and ripe fruit, since the underripe furnishes the pectin and the acid while the ripe fruit gives flavor and color.

Q. How much sugar is required for one cup of juice?

A. There is no "rule o' thumb" to follow in jelly making. Three-fourths of a cup of sugar to a cup of juice is the approximate amount. If a second extraction of juice is made, it is best to use not more than a half to three-fourths of a cup of sugar to a cup of juice.

Q. When should the sugar be added in jelly making?

A. Probably the best time to add the sugar is the middle of the cooking period. If added at the beginning, it may cause the jelly to become "syrupy" due to a chemical change that takes place when the sugar and fruit acid are boiled for the longer cooking period. crystallization is likely to occur, due to insufficient chemical change in the sugar. After adding the sugar, stir jelly until the sugar is dissolved—no longer.

Q. Is it necessary to heat the sugar before adding it to the juice?

A. Heating the sugar shortens the cooking period, since the juice is not cooled it would be by the addition of cold sugar.

HULMEVILLE

The picnic of the Neshaminy Methodist Sunday School, held at Willow Grove Park on Saturday, was thoroughly enjoyable. A large number of members and friends of the school participated in picnic luncheon and dinner, and the amusements at the park.

Visitors on Sunday of Messrs. Charles and Albert Haefer were Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Stumm, Mrs. J. Swope and children Barbara and Frank, Merchantville, N. J.

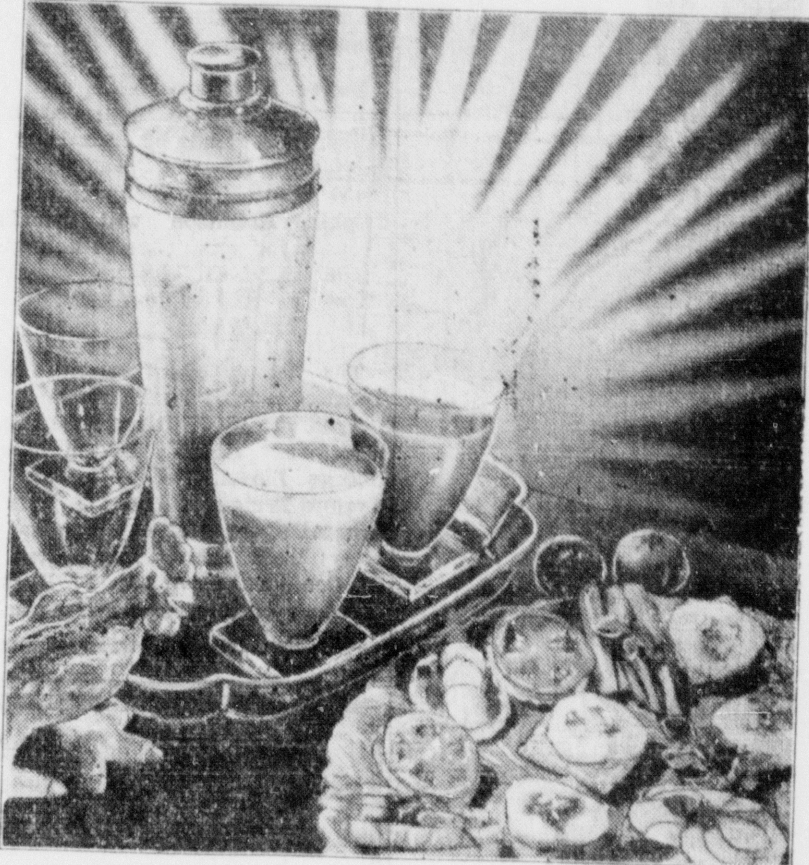

The members of her club will be entertained tomorrow evening by Miss Marie Hanson.

From Saturday until today, Mr. and Mrs. William Kelley, Providence, Md., visited Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesley Haefer.

COFFEE punch and "out of the garden" sandwiches—there's a knockout lunch for sultry summer days that even the rooster in the picture is crowing about! You'll fare better with lighter fare when the sun shines bright, so top different kinds of bread with slices of radish or cucumber or tomato fresh from the garden, and make coffee punch with the recipe given below.

Coffee Punch
1 square chocolate
2 cups double-strength, freshly-made coffee
1/2 cup maple syrup
Cracked ice
1/2 cup cream, whipped
Melt chocolate over boiling water. Add one cup of coffee, bring to a boil and cook for about 1 minute. Add remaining coffee and maple syrup. Chill and place in shaker with whipped cream and cracked ice. Shake vigorously until well mixed. Pour into glasses. Serves 4.

Summer Sandwich Fillings:
Sliced tomato, chopped or sliced bacon with lettuce and mayonnaise. Sliced cucumber and mayonnaise. Chopped pimientos and chopped walnuts.

Thin slices of mild onion (soaked in salt water and drained) with mustard.

Ground raw carrot, chopped cabbage and celery with mayonnaise. Chopped celery, minced parsley and minced onion.

HORACE H. BURTON,

Secretary.

To Hold Reunion Of World War Naval "Vets"

A reunion of the naval veterans of the World War who served at any time during that period in the Second Naval District will be held in Newport, R. I., on September 1st and 2nd.

All officers, enlisted men and women who served in the U. S. Navy, Naval Reserve, Marine Corps and Coast Guard are cordially invited to attend.

A fine program is being arranged to entertain all who attend. The City of Newport is also arranging an elaborate program in connection with its Tercentenary Celebration for Old Home Week.

This Association would like to have the names, rate, period of time and location or name of ship where duty was performed in the Second District, of those who will attend so that arrangements can be made to entertain them. Perhaps they may form a local committee and send the names in a group. If further information is desired it may be secured by writing to this association, care of City Hall, Newport, Rhode Island.

THE DELL SCHEDULE

The music menu for the week at Robin Hood Dell, Philadelphia, includes two nights of "Carmen," the Philadelphia public premiere of "Joseph and His Brothers" with the Mary Binney Montgomery Ballet, the sensational piano team of Fray and Braggiotti, and the Philadelphia debut of George Sebastian, with Jean Tennyson, soprano, and Iso Brieselli, violinist, as his soloists.

ON THE SCREENS

RITZ THEATRE

With Alice Faye, his romantic co-star in "Alexander's Ragtime Band," Tyrone Power's latest appearance is in "Rose of Washington Square," in which the pair are joined by Al Jolson. Among the melodic milestones in the film, which opens today at the Ritz Theatre, are "My Man," "Toot Toot Tootsie, Goodbye," "I'm Sorry I Made You Cry," "Ja-Da," "April Showers," "Mammy," "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows," "I'm Just Wild About Harry," "California Here I Come" and "Avalon."

BRISTOL THEATRE

Breath-taking romance, spectacular flying and awesome crack-ups, a superb cast and a stirring story all combine to provide sensational entertainment at the Bristol Theatre, where Columbia's "Only Angels Have Wings," opened yesterday.

The film produced and directed by Howard Hawks, co-stars Cary Grant and Jean Arthur, with a splendid supporting cast which includes Richard Barthelmess, Rita Hayworth and Thomas Mitchell.

GRAND THEATRE

A thousand savage redmen sweep down on the Mounties' lonely outpost! A gallant garrison fights against overwhelming odds! A lone woman finds love amid peril on a primitive frontier.

Believe it or not—this is what happens in Shirley Temple's latest picture, "Susannah of the Mounties!" The famous story of the old Northwest is a thrilling vehicle for the Number One star and it was selected by Production Chief Darryl F. Zanuck as a counterpoint to the fantasy of her last hit, "The Little Princess."

YOUNG TERRY TO MEET MOST TRYING TEST TONIGHT

TRENTON BOXER TO MEET "TIGER" REED IN 8-ROUND BOUT

Terry Says If He Wins He Wants Paulie Walker For Next Opponent

OTHER GOOD BOUTS

Card To Be Offered The Fans Tonight Includes Several Good Bouts

Within the ring at St. Ann's Open Air Arena here tonight, Young Terry of Trenton will meet the most trying test of his comeback efforts to date when he crosses fists with Tiger Reed of Philadelphia in the eight-round wind-up of Joe Grunio's show. Terry, who has been training hard and faithfully in his comeback, is in fine fettle for tonight's encounter and expects to take Reed after a hard contest. In fact, Terry has stated that, "If I win like I expect to, then I want Paulie Walker for my next opponent. If I can handle Reed, then I am ready for the likes of Walker." This spoke the confident and ruddy Terry today.

Reed, on the other hand, was not so outspoken nor as cocksure as the more ebullient Terry, although he gives one the feeling that he is supremely confident of the outcome of tonight's go. He is in great shape and will give a good account of himself once the bell rings, sending the gladiators on their way.

The semi-windup of six rounds brings together Danny Russell of Philadelphia and Leonard Hayes of Trenton, the former Golden Gloves, who makes his pro debut tonight. The first six-rounder on the card will show the popular "Hokey" Leighton of Croydon meeting his rival from Philadelphia, Howard "Kid" Sewell. This is a rematch and is attracting the attention of the fans, who saw the first contest which was a hummer while it lasted. The first of the four-rounders will show Freddy Badassi of Trenton and Corry Valenti, Philadelphia. The second four-rounder brings together Joe Perry, of Philadelphia, and Eddie Franks, the C. C. C. champion. The third and final four-rounder will present Willie Wiggins, of Trenton, and his opponent, Donald Carr, of Philadelphia.

The first contest will get under way at 8.45 p. m., sharp.

of some kind such as a garden, a calf, an acre of potatoes or corn. The owner of such a project should strive to secure satisfactory financial returns, for such money is yours to retain. "You may earn and save your money. The agricultural supervisor of your school will help you plan and conduct your project. With your project you may find improved practices possible or a new outlet for products as taught in your agricultural class. Keep in mind that you will soon be an adult and what you learn in this course and by conducting a project may help you be a more successful and more useful citizen.

"Many prizes are offered by the state, local and other agencies for outstanding projects. It would be an honor to you, to your school and to your parents to win these honors. The possible awards will be explained by the agricultural supervisor. We will keep records of expenses, labor, costs, receipts and in this way show profit and loss. Very naturally your project becomes an actual business training. "There is much satisfaction in seeing the marvelous accomplishments you can attain in nature and this is your opportunity. Your work is healthful too and teaches one as experience can teach the problems of life. You can co-operate in making your life more successful, more happy and an inspiration to others by conducting a good project."

Cautions Vacationists Against Accidents

PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—(INS)—Sunny days, which attract thousands of people to ocean and stream, have prompted Philadelphia Director of Public Safety Emanuel to issue a bulletin on "How To Avert A Tragedy in Your Family or Among Your Friends."

"He said that warning against swimming 'don'ts' is just as important as instruction in traffic dangers. For those who cannot swim well, Emanuel said the following spell 'danger': Standing up or trying to change seats in a small boat; straying beyond your depth while bathing; going too near the edge of deep water, particularly when the bank is wet; playing around boats; forgetting that a canoe tips over easily.

For those who can swim well, these practices stand for the same word—"danger": Swimming in dangerous currents or near dams; diving without knowing the water's depth, current, and type of bottom; playing drowning; swimming right after eating; and trying to save someone without knowing your ability to do so. If you have a house to rent, advertise it in the Courier.

LANDRETHS RATTLE 18 HITS TO DOWN S. PHILLIES

Eighteen hits rattled off the bats of the home team yesterday afternoon at the Landreth Ball Park as the Landreth Seeds defeated the South Phillies of the Phila. League 10-6 for their 13th straight victory.

Miksis with a home run, a double and two singles out of five trips to the plate, Rossi with four out of five, one a double and Costello two singles and a triple were the Farmers sluggers.

Miksis' homer was a mighty wallop to right center field, a homer on any grounds, which also counted Rossi, who had doubled. Liberatore and Costello starred in the field for Landreth's taking part in three double plays.

For the South Phillies, a wonderful shoestring catch by Meagher was the fielding feature of the day. Coleman for the visitors had a three base hit and two singles. It was Al Carey's 8th win against one loss and one tie game.

Thursday evening, Landreth Seeds will play Fleisher All Stars of Phila. at Landreth Ball Park at 6.15 o'clock. Fleisher defeated Landreth earlier in the season 5 to 1, so the game this Thursday evening should be a fine contest.

ST. LUKE'S DEFEATS PHILA. "PRO" NINE

St. Luke's of Croydon beat the Philadelphia Pros in a well played game at Croydon by the score of 4 to 1. "Lyn" Woolvin pitched good ball, having 11 strike-outs and scattering 7 hits and allowing only one run. Both pitchers had good control, not allowing a free pass to first base. The fielding gem of the day was turned in by "Dutch" Foerster by a beautiful running shoe string catch of Devlin's liner in the 3rd inning. Rodgers led the visitors at bat with 3 hits, matched by "Lyn" Woolvin of the winners.

Bristol Plants Have A Portion, Gov't Contracts

Bristol's two aviation plants, Fleetwings, Inc., and Hall-Aluminum Aircraft Corporation, are like other aircraft companies throughout the country, busy with government contracts. Military contracts are being handled by both of Bristol's aircraft concerns. Fleetwings has a contract for experimental work, and has likewise been filling orders for parts, including stainless steel wings for the air corps "Dolphins." Fifty thousand square feet of floor space is being utilized by Fleetwings in its work at present.

The Hall company relies on navy or Coast Guard orders. This concern which specializes on twin-engined planes with long cruising ranges, must depend on need for bombers or patrol ships.

At present the company is hopeful of securing part of the contracts which may be let for heavier ships. The present work of Hall is about 25 to 35 per cent capacity, with parts being turned out for another aircraft concern.

ODD FELLOWS MADE BEST SHOWING LAST WEEK

BRISTOL TWILIGHT LEAGUE	won	lost	%
GRUNDY'S at DIAMOND (Cornwells field)	12	6	.667

ODD FELLOWS at HALL ALUMINUM (Leedom's field)	9	10	.474
Empire, Kervick; Scorer, June	8	9	.471
Diamond	7	13	.350

The Odd Fellows made the best showing in the Bristol Twilight loop last week. By winning both of its scheduled games, the Oddies managed to jump from fourth place into second, two games from the league-leading Diamond nine.

The Hall Aluminum nine ran its streak to seven straight wins by also winning twice. A triumph for this team over the Oddies tonight will advance the airplane workers into third place. The same two clubs are scheduled for tomorrow night and if the boys of Bill White and Ernie Nellis are victorious in both, then the Hall team will jump into second place.

In the meantime, Joe Diamanti's Diamond team is holding its own. The Andalusians are resting in first place, two games to the good and need but two triumphs to clinch the top notch position in the circuit. Also, scheduled for tonight is the tilt between Diamond and Grundy's which according to averages should be another Diamond victory. But anything may happen and if Joe Antonelli is having one of his on nights, the Diamond hitters will be in for plenty of difficulty. Grundy's at the present writing is in the cellar but it won't take much to enable them to climb up the ladder as they are but four games away from second place.

Games tonight will begin at 6.30 o'clock sharp. All players must be fully uniformed in order to participate in tonight's games.

job who, if not himself authorized to accept registrations, will be able immediately to put the applicant in touch with the person so authorized. Should the worker be unable to locate the foreman, he can secure a certificate for his months of wages, if he worked for the railroad in 1938, from his employer or from the Bureau of Services and Records, Railroad Retirement Board, Washington, D. C., which will prove his eligibility for unemployment insurance as a railroad worker.

Eligibles include railroad workers, railway express men or anyone who is considered a carrier under terms of the Interstate Commerce Commission's definition.

To be eligible for unemployment insurance benefits, an employee must meet three requirements. He must have earned $150 or more from a railroad or other employer covered by the Act during the calendar year 1938. He must register and serve a waiting period of 15 consecutive days in which there are at least eight days of unemployment. He must not have become disqualified for benefits due to any of the causes specifically set forth in the Act.

The importance of registration by the worker when he becomes unemployed, or as soon thereafter as possible, the board pointed out, lies in the fact that his days of unemployment cannot count either toward his 15-day "waiting period" or as days of unemployment for which he will receive benefits until he registers and properly files his claim. Benefits are paid for each day over seven that an eligible railroad worker is unemployed in any 15 consecutive days. The benefit rates vary from $1.75 to $3 a day, depending on the worker's earnings for 1938.

Raymond Faus, who has offices in the Federal Building in Philadelphia, is district manager for the entire Trenton area.

Under his supervision, 20 claim agents have been approved in this region as a result of organizing work carried on for the past month by Field Agent M. R. Robinson, of Philadelphia. Robinson will remain in Trenton for some time to help get the benefit payment system functioning smoothly. His headquarters are at 72 South Clinton avenue.

The list of claim agents in the Trenton area is as follows:

Trenton: J. J. Glutz, track supervisor, 22 South Clinton avenue; George Ziesel, freight agent, Olden Avenue Freight Station; J. F. Moran, general agent, Railway Express Company; H. R. Edney, yardmaster, P. R. R. Coalport Yard; W. F. Buckalew, foreman of telegraph and signals, P.

R. R. Station; H. M. Wyrrough, engine house foreman, East Trenton; Fred Lanning, freight agent, Reading Station, North Warren street; and L. T. Blackwell, general agent, Reading Station, West Trenton.

Yardley: W. C. Foulke, Reading general agent. Morrisville: C. H. Canning, P. R. R. freight house. Bristol: S. V. Brown, P. R. R. freight agent. Langhorne: Paul Young, Reading station agent. Neshaminy Falls: A. J. Neeley, general agent.
